Center for Strategic and International Studies
1800 K Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, DC 20006

AGENDA

8:30-9:00 Continental Breakfast

9:00-9:45 Introduction

Richard Jackson and Neil Howe will give a brief update on the CSIS project on long-term immigration projections. Participants will be asked to introduce themselves and offer any preliminary thoughts about the day's agenda.

9:45-12:30 Morning Session: An Examination of Major Immigration Drivers

The morning session will be devoted to an examination of major immigration drivers—their relative importance, their interrelationship, and their likely impact on the direction and magnitude of international migration flows. There will be presentations by working group members who are writing papers on long-term drivers.

Presentations by:

Steven Nyce, Watson Wyatt Worldwide
— on demographics and labor markets

Jan Hofmann, Deutsche Bank Research
— on trade and technology

Anna Maria Mayda, Georgetown University
— on politics and policy

12:30-1:30 Lunch

1:30-3:30 Afternoon Session: Putting the Pieces Together: Perspectives on Building a Comprehensive Projection Framework

The afternoon session will explore how theoretical insights and empirical evidence about trends in international migration might be integrated into a comprehensive projection framework. There will be presentations by working group members who are writing papers on projection methodology.

Presentations by:

Douglas Massey, Princeton University

Wolfgang Lutz, International Institute for Applied Systems Analysis

3:30-4:30

Conclusion

Each participant will be asked to assess the prospects for improving immigration projection methodology and to make recommendations on next steps.
