

INVITATION

Center for Strategic and International Studies ■ Washington, D.C.

The CSIS Energy Program presents

“Saskatchewan’s Contribution to U.S. Energy Security”

with

The Honorable Maynard Sonntag
Saskatchewan Minister of Industry and Resources

9:30 a.m. -11:00 a.m., Wednesday, June 20, 2007
CSIS B1B Conference Room, 1800 K Street NW

The CSIS Energy Program is pleased to host The Honorable Maynard Sonntag, Saskatchewan Minister of Industry and Resources. Canada is the United States’ largest and most geopolitically stable oil, natural gas and uranium supplier. The Province of Saskatchewan is the world’s largest uranium producer, and Canada’s second largest oil producer. Minister Sonntag will discuss how Saskatchewan’s role as a supplier of oil and uranium adds to a strong partnership between the two countries, a partnership that is critical to ensuring safe, secure and reliable supplies of energy for the U.S. in the coming decades.

We hope that you will be able to join us.

Please RSVP by emailing energy@csis.org with your name, affiliation and contact information.

For more information on this and other Energy Program events, contact Jennifer Bovair at (202)775-3115 or jbovair@csis.org.