U.S. Engagement in International Energy Forums

With

Karen Harbert,
Assistant Secretary for Policy and International Affairs,
U.S. Department of Energy

Energy continues to play an increasingly important role in major international forums. Following the United States' recent participation in the G8 Summit, the APEC Energy Ministers Meeting, the Strategic Economic Dialogue with China, and the International Energy Agency Ministerial, the CSIS Energy and National Security Program has invited Ms. Karen Harbert to discuss the outcomes of these meetings as well as the administration's views on major international energy developments.

Wednesday, July 11, 2007
2:30 p.m. – 4:00 p.m.
Room: B1B, CSIS

Please RSVP to Matthew Frank at energy@csis.org by Monday, July 7, 2007.

The Center for Strategic and International Studies (CSIS) is a nonprofit, bipartisan public policy organization established in 1962 to advance global security and prosperity in an era of economic and political transformation by providing strategic insights and practical policy solutions to decision makers.
