

GLOBAL AGING FORUM

The Legatum Prosperity Index: What Constitutes National Wellbeing—and How Can Demographics Affect It?

March 10, 2011

Speakers' Biographies

Dr. Ashley Thomas Lenihan is a Senior Fellow at the Legatum Institute. Dr. Lenihan's research interests concentrate at the nexus of international political economy and international security. She is currently writing on government intervention into national security-related cross-border mergers and acquisitions. Her other research interests include international law, war crimes, and nationalism. Dr. Lenihan is also currently a Visiting Fellow at the Centre for International Studies at the London School of Economics, as well as a Senior Fellow with the Institute for Law, Science, & Global Security at Georgetown University. She has held numerous academic fellowships, including the William V. O'Brien Fellowship at Georgetown University's Institute for International Law and Politics in Washington, D.C. from 2005-2007. While at Georgetown, she taught a number of classes including International Relations and for the last two years acted as a Tutor for General Diplomatic Studies & Practice at the School of Oriental and African Studies in London. She began her career in London as an investment banking analyst in the European M&A division of Donaldson, Lufkin, and Jenrette, and then moved to Credit Suisse First Boston as an investment banking analyst in their General Industrials Group focused on Aerospace and Defence M&A. She received her Ph.D. in Government and her B.S. in Foreign Service from Georgetown University.

Jiehae Choi is a Research Fellow at the Legatum Institute. Her main responsibilities include managing the production of the Prosperity Index, as well as providing analyses for other Legatum products and activities. Her academic and professional work has focused on development economics, social entrepreneurship, and impact evaluation. Prior to joining Legatum, she managed the North Korea grants portfolio at the National Endowment for Democracy and worked at various non-profits in South Korea, Cameroon, and Washington, DC. Jiehae has a Master's in International Finance and Conflict Management from John Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies and a Bachelor's in Economics and Social Anthropology from Harvard.

Nathan Gamester is a Research Analyst at the Legatum Institute. With a background in politics, he works on issues relating to policy and government including the economy, entrepreneurship and international business. Nathan is the former Senior Parliamentary Researcher to Professor the Baroness Finlay of Llandaff, in the House of Lords. Before joining Legatum, Nathan worked for several campaign organisations providing independent writing, research and consultancy services. Nathan holds a degree from the Univ. of Brighton in Business Studies with Law.